Rental Research Meeting Minutes
September 1st, 2015

Julie Banks- Introductions

Melissa Wittstruck- Ground rules, meeting facilitator next meeting October 6th

Dan Skindzier- Building Dept presentation- went over the building department’s process and the types of issues they commonly deal with regarding rental housing.

Questions:
Heleen Dewey- do you find that you have more common reoccurring properties?
Jerry Numbers- Is the most common reason for permit denial is for addition of second unit?

Heather Trautman- Code Enforcement Presentation- went over what Code Enforcement does and what different code complaints they process as well as the substandard building process. Showed the number of complaints by type that were rental versus owner occupied for the past 2 years.

Patty Webster- for code and build dept. do you really believe that the inspection process will prevent bad landlords who are not currently taking out permits for the work they are currently doing?

Dan- if registration and inspection didn’t occur then there could be penalties. If inspection occurs on regular schedule then many of these issues could be resolved to begin with.

Patty- how can you ensure that they’ll register their properties? What about the ability to do Reverse Condemnation?

Jerry Numbers- complaints had a very small percentage of rental properties?

Sarah Kintner and Heather Trautman- the statistics for Substandard Rental Buildings are low because we do not have a tracking system. GAP identified

Terri Anderson- what happens to tenants when a building is deemed uninhabitable? Are there resources available to help them find new housing?

Heather- yes, we do assist by giving them resource info and connecting them with resources.

Alexander Scott- reportable process question; who can make a complaint? Penalties are to the owners but can also be issues to tenants.
Heather- when we can identify the problem causer then we can give it to the tenant. Substandard buildings are the responsibility of the owner exclusively

Melissa Wittstruck- would you like us to change our meeting schedule to dedicate time to “catch up time”?

Audience agreed to use the October meeting as a catch up meeting to discuss questions that have been asked and not answered from previous meetings and to ask more questions of Code Enforcement and Building Departments.

Alexander Scott- how many properties are actually substandard? And what qualifies as substandard? It seems like a very small number...

Heather- methods of data collection vary among departments. There is not one tracking system in place currently.
