INCIDENT SYNOPSIS

Officers responded to a Domestic Violence call. The caller reported a female beating her pregnant roommate outside her door. The first officer to arrive located the female suspect. She was uncooperative with the officer's questions and refused to take her hands out of her pockets. He decided to detain her in handcuffs. As he attempted to take arm control, she tried to spin out of his grasp. She shoved and hit the officer while trying to escape detention. The officer employed a Level I Lateral Neck Restraint hold to gain control of her upper body. He struggled to place the hold while another officer ran up to take control of her other arm. The two officers handcuffed her and booked her into jail for Assault and Assault-Domestic Violence.
