

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTICE WHITE PAPER

Plan Commission Workshop
June 10, 2015

Background

At two citizen summit meetings in 2014 moderated by Council President Ben Stuckart, possible improvements to communication and other issues between city government and city neighborhoods were discussed. Citizens voted on the top issues needing improvement. Land use notification was the number one issue and a stakeholder group began exploring modifications.

December 2014: The stakeholder group with help from Gonzaga University Law Clinic drafted specific proposed changes to Spokane's existing land use notification related to neighborhoods and sent the draft to Council President Ben Stuckart and others for review.

April 2015: Council President Ben Stuckart provided a Neighborhood Notification Summary Paper and a draft of proposed ordinance changes to the Planning Department for review. A meeting between Council President Ben Stuckart, stakeholder members, and City staff discussed clarifications and modifications to the proposed ordinance changes.

May 2015: Two meetings were held between city staff members (Planning and Development Services, Legal, Community and Neighborhood Services) and stakeholder members to further clarify issues and propose acceptable, workable, and legal changes. The result has been a draft of potential modifications to Title 17 of the Spokane Municipal Code (included, pages 4-17).

Proposal Goal

To improve the Spokane Neighborhood Council's notification procedures, project awareness, and ability to comment on land use applications and permits which are processed by the City of Spokane.

Regulatory Framework

The Revised Code of Washington (RCW) establishes much of the framework that jurisdictions must follow regarding land use "project permits", "permit applications", project review and approval, public notice and public comments, time frames, and appeals. The statute requires all jurisdictions in the state to provide for a predictable and expedient process for processing applications. Administrative procedures related to application processing are required to contain certain specific steps that are required to be completed within 120 days.

Within that framework, local jurisdictions have the ability to establish more refined and functional requirements and processes, which the City adopted into the Spokane Municipal Code in 1996. Some "project permits" and "project applications" with minimal public impact are approved by city officials, typically building officials, and do not require review from other officials, or require a public notice, public hearing, or public comments. Other project types have increased public impact and therefore have strict requirements for public notice, project review, public hearing, etc. with the approval process. These project types are listed within the Spokane Municipal Code, Title 17G. Administration and Procedures.

Present Process Requirements for “x” Permit Type

The provisions of RCW 36.70.B require the follow minimum steps to be accomplished within 120 days of the application processing time:

- Complete Application Certification
- Notice of Application
- Public Comment Period
- SEPA Threshold Determination (if applicable)
- Notice of Public Hearing
- Consolidated Public Hearing
- Open Record Public Hearing
- Closed Record Public Hearing
- Notice of Decision
- Appeal

The Complete Application Certification is a determination by the local official that the application subject is ‘complete’, and as a result of this determination the application is ‘vested’ against review by newly adopted regulations that are promulgated after the date of vesting. This procedure should follow closely the ‘Vesting Rights Doctrine’ of the State of Washington. This process is required to take no more than 28 days.

The Notice of Application is a procedure that requires public notice to be provided that informs the public that an application has been filed with the local jurisdiction including reference information (project name, file number, etc.), contact information and a project description. The preparation of the Notice of Application is required to be completed within 14 days of the determination of a Complete Application.

As part of the Notice of Application, a Public Comment Period is required to be completed and notice of the ability to comment on an application is provided on the Notice of Application. This time is discretionary to the jurisdiction except that it may not be less than 14 days and may not be more than 30 days.

At the end of the public comment period, a SEPA (State Environmental Policy Act) Threshold Determination will be made on the project, if applicable. A SEPA determination is a decision on the likely impacts of the project to either the natural or manmade environment. Please note that SEPA can occur earlier in the application process such as with Notice of Application when the Optional DNS Process is used. The Threshold determination is required to be made no less than 15 days before the Public Hearing.

The Notice of Public Hearing is required to occur after the Public Comment Period and if applicable, after the SEPA Threshold Determination has been made. Again, the notice is required to contain project information, contact information and the date, time and place of the hearing. Notice of Public Hearing is required to be made no less than 15 days before the hearing.

The Public Hearing is an opportunity for all people to present to the decision maker their position on an application. There are rules for conduct of a Public Hearing such as recording the testimony, submission of evidence and the protocol for a person testifying.

In the past, an application with multiple components may go through multiple hearings related to a project. Each time the application risked being disallowed because one component would not be approved. The statute provides for Consolidated Public Hearing and allows applications to be combined into one public hearing and receive one decision of approval or denial for the overall project. The City of Spokane is a Hearing Examiner based system, which means that the Hearing Examiner renders all discretionary decisions. This includes rezones, variances, preliminary plats, shoreline permits and some special permits.

The number of Public Hearings is limited under the statute to one Open Record Hearing and one Closed Record Hearing. The Open Record Hearing is a hearing conducted by an officer that creates the record through testimony and submission of evidence on the project permit. An Open Record Hearing may also be held on an appeal if no open record predecision hearing was held, such as the case of short plat or the issuance of a building permit.

The Notice of Decision is required to provide notice of the decision rendered on an application including any statement about the SEPA threshold determination and procedures for administrative appeal, if any. The Notice of Decision may be a copy of the report or the decision on the permit. The notice is required to be provided to the applicant and anyone who requested notice of the decision or submitted substantive comments on the application.

An Appeal of a decision may be allowed and notice of the appeal procedure is required to appear on the Notice of Decision. Depending on the type of appeal, either an open record or closed record appeal hearing is conducted. The purpose of the appeal hearing is to allow for an applicant or an affected party to present evidence and testimony to a single hearing body or officer in conjunction with a project permit to consider changing the final permit decision.

The Closed Record Hearing relates to the appeal of a decision, following an open record hearing on a project. In this case, the record for the appeal hearing is closed and no new information may be submitted. The party that reviews the appeal may only consider the information that was presented at the open record hearing on the application.

Major Proposed Changes

- Early in the process, the applicable city department will forward complete project permit applications to the neighborhood council in which the project is located for review and comments.
- The department will provide a written response to neighborhood comments received, and also forward comments to the project applicant.
- Applications for demolition permits will be forwarded to the neighborhood council in which the project is located for review and comments.
- The city website/project address will be added to the sign requirements for public notice signs.
